A Faith Story

What is faith? What is a faith story? Faith is trust in something bigger than ourselves. A faith story is an example of that trust based on a belief or past experience. We all have faith of different varieties. We sit down in a chair with the faith it will hold us up. That is a faith built on past experiences.

It's the same with our Christian faith. On our journeys walking with Christ we experience God's grace and blessings in ways that contribute to and strengthen our faith. And because we are not alone on our journey, the faith stories of others walking beside us help us to recognize our own faith. Here is a faith story from someone in our Christian family.

When I joined St. Stephen many years ago I was told I was joining a family. At first I wasn't sure what that meant, other than I was to get close to many others on my walk with Christ. What I didn't know was what those close family members would do for me.

Five years after I joined the choir, Anne and I became parents for the first time. Hannah (a.k.a. Scout) was born in January, and as choir members Anne and I wondered how we would be able to participate while needing to tend to our newborn daughter, too young, we felt, to be placed in the church nursery during worship or rehearsals. Anne volunteered to take a sabbatical from choir while we wrestled with the problem. I stayed in choir on my own.

Easter would be different. Both of us felt a yearning desire to sing at the Good Friday and Easter Sunday services. But what would we do with Hannah when all our potential baby sitters would be attending those services also?

We came up with a plan and decided to test it on Good Friday. Anne or I—one of us—would cradle Hannah in our arms as the choir sang, while she would presumably nap. And because we thought Hannah might be less of a distraction if she were partially hidden in the back-row tenor section, I agreed to hold her.

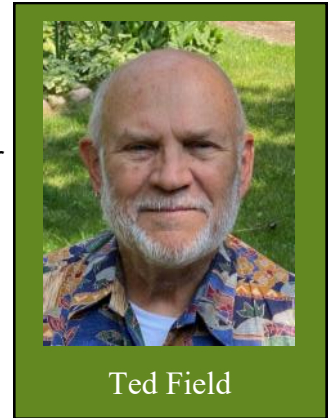

As the service began, I took my place in the tenor row with Hannah in my arms. Standing beside me, fellow-tenor Skip Bresin held his music so that I could read it, too.

We began the first song just as Hannah was stirring from a nap. No problem, I thought. But then she began to thrash and kick. I tried to ignore her and sing on. One of her flailing hands punched me in the jaw. Then her arms and legs took on the rotary motions of a swimmer doing laps. Just as Skip noticed how poorly I was handling the situation, Hannah let out a wail that could be heard above the choir voices. I knew I was doomed. After a quick good-bye to Skip, I slid behind the bass section and exited the sanctuary through the choir room and continued to the fellowship hall where I presumed I would spend the rest of the worship service alone with Hannah. The test was a failure.

No doubt, most of the congregation had witnessed my hasty exit. Certainly, Gretchen Trenda, sitting in the front row with her family, had. What I didn't know was that as I was making my sudden exit, she was making hers also, retreating from the sanctuary into the front hallway and rushing to meet me in the fellowship hall. We arrived there at the same time. Motioning with her hands, she implored, "Give her to me. You get back in there."

I finished the rest of the service. Gretchen—God bless her—did not, and spent most of it holding Hannah and trying to calm her while pacing back and forth in the quiet of the fellowship hall.

At that moment I knew what it meant to join a Christian family. The family (Gretchen) was there when I needed it (her). And ever since that night I've never lost faith that the family I joined many years ago will be there for me whenever I need help.

CHURCH MATTERS

Message From the Pastor

In interim ministry partnership,

Listening is a gift of the Holy Spirit although unmentioned in the book of Galatians. The Wednesday grace and praise worship theme is Galatians verses 22-23: By contrast, the fruit of the Spirit is love, joy, peace, patience, kindness, generosity, faithfulness, 23 gentleness, and self-control. All baptized by water and word of the Holy Spirit of Christ in God receive these biblical gifts and others cultivated for daily need. My blessed opportunity in listening to each of you share your years of faithfulness developed and rooted at St. Stephen permits me to hear what is common among all people of faith— how our stories are in the story of God. Listening to each other's experience of the activity of God becomes our shared prayer.

Appropriately, one may ask: Isn't it best to listen well at all times and especially when transition occurs? Transitions invite keen listening. These godly gifts of the Holy Spirit that we commemorate at GAP call St. Stephen to be a fruitful congregation listening to our pew neighbors and our community neighbors.

This listening and transcribing process as delineated in the St. Paul Area Synod (SPAS) call process manual has begun. The St. Stephen Council engaged in a visioning process with Pastor Grimm of the SPAS. A timeline has been placed for viewing in the narthex. The Saint Stephen Mission Exploration Team is planning more listening venues for your gifted input. I will be accompanying the METeam on this listening journey.

The St. Stephen METeam is a transitional partnership in the gospel for completing the ministry site profile with received content. This document introduces the St. Stephen congregation to the ordained candidates to interview for the call. Your partners in listening to the mission of our Triune God at St. Stephen. PK

Council Highlights

- 1) The Mission Exploration Team is moving forward and preparation for cottage meetings is almost complete. We expect to soon begin hosting meetings for groups of 5 to 10 to share their thoughts in response to a series of questions that will be used to help craft the Ministry Site Profile.
- 2) In response to a request from Galilee Lutheran Church a $500 donation is being made to their Community Garden fund which especially helps local immigrant groups. Our Gift Committee will also look at whether there is money available through the Special Designated Memorial funds.
- 3) We discussed St. Stephen's practices for stewarding of financial gifts and will do more to educate the congregation around gift practices, possibly including an adult forum on this topic.
- 4) White Bear Lake is starting a new Kiwanis Club that will focus on support for children and youth. Melissa Whitman is serving as President and the July meeting was held at St. Stephen.
- 5) We will be resuming passing the offering plate at Sunday worship services (which had been discontinued during the pandemic) and also add a "noisy offering" for kids.
